IT Security Training Tool

No organization's security profile is the same. And so IT security training programs must be tailored to meet the specific needs of your business.

Key decisions involved in crafting a successful security training program include:

- Determining which training topics to cover.
- Deciding where to categorize end users.
- Selecting the best training delivery method for end-user training needs.

The IT Security Training Tool calculator from Info~Tech Research Group will guide you in the decision-making process and will recommend the decisions that will best meet organizational needs.
